DETAILED ACTION

The requirement for election of species in the Office action 18 August 2004 is withdrawn. The undersigned examiner, newly-assigned to the case, does not understand that each of the species identified would be patentably distinct from the others.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Each of the dependent claims 6-18 and 20 recites "the fluorine-containing chemistry." These claims each depend from independent claim 1, which says nothing specific about any fluorine-containing chemistry. What is a fluorine-containing chemistry? Claim 1 recites that there is "a fluorine-containing plasma source," so the dependent claims can be understood as reciting various materials that are ionized to form the plasma. (?) Or the designation of "chemistry" could mean that there is some specific chemical reaction involving fluorine that is required by independent claim 1. If so, it is not clear to the examiner what that chemical reaction would be. At the very least, the phrase "the fluorine-containing chemistry" should have a specific antecedent in claim 1.

Claims 37-39 are allowed.
